Building Community

What is the “United Way”?

The United Way of Saskatoon and Area came into existence in 1959 as the result of a partnership agreement between the Saskatoon Board of Trade and the Saskatoon and District Labour Council. Business and labour came together to form the United Way because they saw the need for the community to identify priority human service needs and raise funds to address them. The United Way of Saskatoon and Area proudly continues to represent this partnership of business, labour and community agencies.

The United Way of Saskatoon and Area serves a geographic area that includes the city of Saskatoon and communities within a 50 kilometer radius of the city. As well, since the United Way of Prince Albert closed in 2000, the United Way of Saskatoon and Area has run a campaign in that community and invested the money raised back into the community. An advisory committee of community leaders from Prince Albert has come together to provide advice and support to these efforts.

Today, the United Way’s mission is to improve lives and build community by engaging individuals and mobilizing collective action. Our primary role is still to raise funds from the community and invest them in agencies providing a wide range of high quality human services that meet the needs of our community. In addition, the United Way is active in the community, working with individuals and groups to identify human service priorities and develop common strategies for addressing them. The United Way is a community builder as well as a funder.

The United Way of Canada-Centraide Canada is a movement of 124 autonomous United Ways located in communities large and small across the country. Born out of a “community collective” philosophy that began in the US in the late 1800s and emerged in Canada in 1917, the organization raises money through community campaigns and reinvests the funds back into the local community where they are most needed. Every year, each United Way signs a membership agreement with the United Way of Canada-Centraide Canada which confirms the mutual obligations of both parties. In addition, each local United Way that signs a membership agreement pays an annual membership fee to the UWC-CC.

Message from the President and Executive Director

In the fall of 2006, the United Way of Saskatoon and Area organized a series of conversations with individuals from all over the city to find out what's important to people and what role the United Way should play in making Saskatoon a better place for everyone to live.

Our consultation process was overseen by a dedicated and representative group of individuals from the United Way Board of Directors, staff, the provincial and federal governments, our funded agencies and the community as a whole. The members of the Core Team made all of the key decisions regarding the questions that we would ask, whom we would meet with, and where we would hold meetings. Members of the Core Team also analyzed all of the data and identified themes.

We decided early on in our discussions that we would use an "appreciative inquiry" approach to our consultation process. This means that rather than asking people about problems or deficits we asked them about their hopes and dreams. The process itself created such good will among everyone who was involved, and the information that we received was incredibly rich. We are very grateful to all of the people who contributed to this truly transformative process.

Listening

"I believe we can change the world if we start listening to one another again. . . Simple, truthful conversation where we each have a chance to speak, we each feel heard, and we each listen well."

Margaret Wheatley

From February until April the United Way Board of Directors and staff worked to plan next steps and recommendations to the Board based on the information we received from the community. On April 24, the Board of Directors of the United Way of Saskatoon and Area approved the following new or re-stated themes as the priorities for our work over the next five years:

1. Addressing the root causes of poverty and alleviating its impact
 - Addressing hunger
 - Addressing the growing gap between rich and poor
 - Housing
 - Unemployment
 - Health disparities
 - Child poverty
2. Creating a community where everyone can participate fully regardless of ability/disability, age, race, where they live
 - Accessibility
 - Engagement of youth
 - Recognition of the important role of the arts and recreation in quality of life
 - Respect and appreciation for cultural diversity; confronting racism, particularly towards Aboriginal people.
3. Supporting access to literacy and skills training and creating opportunities for people to learn from each other
 - Working with kids in schools
 - More access to education
4. Creating a community where families feel safe
 - The police and the community work together
 - Drug and alcohol problems are addressed
 - Youth are valued and accepted
 - Crime is reduced

These are the priorities that came out of the conversations we had with people in Saskatoon. This fall, we want to bring together the groups and individuals in the community that are already working on these issues to see if there are gaps in what is being done and to find out what role people would like to see the United Way play in responding to them. As well, we want to meet with some of our many donors to find out what they think our role should be in addressing these issues. We will also organize at least one consultation in a community outside Saskatoon.

We believe that this is a good time for the United Way to be looking ahead. Saskatoon celebrated its hundredth birthday last year. Our economy is booming and our annual community campaign has made significant gains over the past few years. This year, we exceeded our campaign goal of $3.25 million and raised a total of $3,363,974, an 8.4% increase over last year. For the first time in eight years we are going to be able to admit new funded agencies this year using our new priorities.

The United Way of Saskatoon and Area enjoyed a very successful year because of the generosity of our donors, the countless hours of work performed by our volunteers, and the dedication and talent of our staff. Thank you to everyone who is part of our United Way family and we look forward to our continued partnership.

Campaign Chair's Message

I am often asked "Why the United Way". It is true that each of us have many opportunities to volunteer with the hope that we can individually contribute to the greater goal of making our community a better place. In addition, there are many ways that we can invest our hard earned incomes whether we invest in our families, our future financial stability or our community, to name just a few options.

The decision of our family to invest in the United Way of Saskatoon and Area is because we believe in Saskatoon and want our community to be the best it can be. The scope of impact of the United Way of Saskatoon and Area is broad enough to influence community growth in many important ways, narrow enough to be effective and efficient and they make it easy for us to contribute individually and to really see the difference we make.

As the volunteer chair of the 2006 United Way Community Campaign Cabinet, I was one of many in a strong team that collectively set an aggressive target of $3.25 million in investments from our community to the United Way. While you can never be absolutely sure, I could sense at the beginning of the year that the spirit of this city and the strength of the volunteers and staff would combine to reach this target. Reach it and exceed it you did! With a record $3.364 million in funds raised, the United Way of Saskatoon and Area is able to provide its support to 29 community agencies and, more importantly, support the over 50,000 individuals in this city who make use of the agencies every year.

I was honoured to have worked with a remarkable group of volunteers, devoted to ensuring that the 2006 community campaign was a success. I have learned from the experience and from the people I met through my work during the campaign. Opportunities for life lessons like these don't come about everyday and I sincerely appreciate it.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the 2006 Community Campaign Cabinet Team, the hundreds of workplace volunteers, the Loaned Representatives, Labour groups, Saskatoon Media, United Way Staff, and of course all of our donors for the time, energy and effort you put into this year's campaign. Your contributions were fundamental in the success of the 2006 Community Campaign; it couldn't have happened without your help!

Every person has a different answer to the question – "Why the United Way" – what is yours?

Reviewing

Allocations Process and Volunteer Citizen Review Panel

As the largest non-government funder of health and social services in Saskatoon, United Way of Saskatoon and Area donors expect that United Way knows the needs in our community. They want assurance that their money is invested in programs and services that make a positive impact on people living in Saskatoon.

What many don't realize is the critical role played by a team of local volunteers who each year take on the important task of evaluating and recommending where United Way Community Fund dollars should be invested.

Working in teams, 27 volunteers representing all walks of life—each with an accountant volunteer—scrutinize financial statements and funding proposals.

Each agency receives an on-site visit from the volunteers. The volunteer teams meet with agency board members, volunteers, and staff and often have the opportunity to talk to people receiving services from the agency.

Volunteers look at the quality of each agency's programming. What positive impact on the quality of life does the agency have? How well does it fit into identified community priorities? What other resources are available to the agency? How cost effective is the agency in delivering its programs and services and does it effectively utilize volunteers?

There are easier ways to give money away—ways that take less time and use fewer people. But we're talking about donor dollars—your dollars. That's why, at United Way, we put the priority in doing a tough job well.

Leslie Brakefield – Benefits from a United Way Funded Agency

By Avalene Soulier

When Leslie Brakefield first donated to United Way, she had no idea that one day she would call on one of its funded agencies. Her eight year old son Taylor has autism. By the time he went into pre-school he was showing signs of the developmental disability such as aggression, insomnia, he didn't like to be held and had to have strict routines.

Leslie found the support she needed from Autism Services. "I wasn't expecting a whole lot. I didn't know who they were, didn't know what they were." Autism services sent a consultant to her home to work with Taylor.

Autism Services provides individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorder and their families quality programming, education, advocacy and support services. Leslie regularly uses their library and Taylor joins recreational programs such as swimming lessons and summer day camp. They say the staff and volunteers at Autism Services are exceptional, and the friendship's Leslie has made with other parents have gotten her through many tough times. "I couldn't do it on my own. Everyday can be so overwhelming just trying to get through the day; you know, trying to get him fed, and dressed, and exercised, and bathed. I don't think I would have anything left at the end of the day if I didn't have those parents to lean on".

The United Way supports Autism Services with an investment of $40,000 to help give children a healthy start and support families under stress.

Autism Services is one of the 29 local agencies receiving funds from the United Way of Saskatoon's Community Fund. United Way impacts the lives of one in four people by investing donor dollars wisely into programs and services to help change lives and build a better community for us all.

Responding

Community Initiatives Fund

In 1995, the United Way of Saskatoon launched the Community Initiatives Fund to provide funding to local community agencies responding to new and emerging social issues in Saskatoon.

Now 11 years later, 71 local projects have benefited from over $400,000 in United Way funding. In those eleven years, the Community Initiatives Fund has encouraged local leadership and innovation to issues such as child hunger and poverty, keeping kids in school, youth living on the streets and isolated seniors.

Through the United Way of Saskatoon and Area's Community Initiative Fund, Saskatoon Community Youth Arts Program (SCYAP) had the opportunity to "get in tune" with the 2007 JUNO Awards in Saskatoon. The United Way sponsored an all weekend exhibit, called "Color and Sound" as well as an interactive mural creation.

Five Artists were commissioned to create paintings inspired by music, which were then put on display in the exhibit. This opportunity provided the selected artists a sense of value and accomplishment. Other music-related art by SCYAP was on display as well. Three local talents performed in the gallery throughout the weekend as part of "Saskatoon Unplugged". Musicians were enthused to be involved and grateful for the opportunity to practice live performances in front of an audience.

In preparation of the JUNO events, SCYAP designed and created a 4'x15' mural depicting Canada's musical landscape, called "Sounds Painted to Me". Designed by Fionncara MacEoin, the mural was nearly completed prior to the events. It was on display at SCYAP's gallery events on the Friday, during Junofest and at TCU place Saturday and Sunday during the JUNO Gala Dinner and Songwriter Circle, while SCYAP artists continued to paint on it. Guests were invited to join the artists and make their mark, creating a unique masterpiece with a variety of personalities. The young artists from SCYAP were put in a position of mentoring as many well known political figures and Canadian musicians and guests joined them. Among those contributing were Sass Jordan, Andrea Menard, Digging Roots, and Susan Aglukark. The Honourable Minister Bev Oda and the Honourable Minister Carol Skelton visited the display and contributed to the mural. This was a once in a lifetime opportunity for the young artists to be part of a private event along side elite musical performers providing them with a sense of empowerment and importance.

“The spirit of giving that our employees show through the United Way campaign makes me very, very proud. This campaign allows Cameco’s employees and our valued contractors to positively impact a range of social issues in their home communities. The campaign is flexible, easy to administer and fun. It helps us to build a real sense of community in our workplace.”

Gerald Grandey
President & CEO
Cameco

In 2006, Cameco . . .

once again showed incredible commitment to their community through their support of the United Way of Saskatoon and Area. Employee Campaign Chairs, Theresa Kirkpatrick and Sheryl Fox, recruited a team of canvassers from head office and each of the mine sites.

With the full support of the Union, USW Local 8914, this team worked tirelessly to encourage employees to participate. In true Cameco style, they ran a best practice campaign, which included employee presentations, incentive prizes, and peer to peer asks. Cameco matched each employee donation to a maximum of $500, doubling the impact of the generosity of their staff.

As an extra bonus, Gerald Grandey, Cameco President and CEO, and members of the executive team volunteered to serve supper at the mine site with the greatest employee participation. Now that’s a personal commitment!

As the United Way of Saskatoon and Area’s number one account in 2006, Cameco and its employees invested more than $226,000 in our communities.

In addition to their financial support, Cameco employees are involved in senior leadership positions on the Campaign Cabinet and have participated in the Day of Caring. Cameco purchases tables at events such as our annual Dinner Date evening and was the presenting sponsor for the 2006 Achievement Announcement and Awards Celebration.

The leadership and commitment of Cameco and its employees is truly making a difference!

Resource Development/2006 Campaign

The annual Community Campaign, including corporate, union, employee and individual giving is United Way's major source of revenue. Since its inception in 1959 the United Way of Saskatoon & Area has raised and invested more than $50M in our community.

2006 was another banner year for the United Way of Saskatoon and Area. Our 2006 community achievement of $3.323M well exceeded our 2006 goal of $3.25M – and represents an achievement increase of $274,998 (or 9%) over the 2005 publicly announced achievement of $3,048,156.

Employee Workplace Giving continued to be the largest source of campaign revenue representing 66.4% of our campaign. Total corporate donations represented 25% of the campaign total which is consistent with the past five years. During that same period, the average individual gift increased by 28%.

A key to the success of the Community Campaign has been our ability to grow our Leadership Giving Program which presently makes up more than 28% of our overall campaign. We are currently working on plans to augment this portion of the campaign and find ways to engage our major donors in more meaningful and mutually-beneficial ways.

The United Way of Saskatoon and Area is proud of all of their supporters. Our "Top 30" accounts make up 52% of the $3.32M raised in 2006.

Helping

United Way and Labour – Working Together to Build a More Caring Community

In 1959, the Saskatoon and District Labour Council and the Saskatoon Chamber of Commerce came together to form the United Way of Saskatoon. As a partner, advocate and community builder, the labour movement has played a significant role in the development and success of the United Way since its inception. This partnership is based on a shared vision of building a stronger, healthier community with a wide range of accessible, universal and high-quality social services accessible to all citizens.

With a goal of helping people in their daily lives, this partnership fosters important programs, such as the Union Counselling Program. This program provides needed confidential work site intervention, peer counselling and support referrals for workers and their families who need help, on or off the job. Since its inception, more than 375 union members representing various unions have taken advantage of the training programs. Trained union counsellors not only help in their workplaces, they also use their skills and community knowledge to help neighbours and friends. Union counsellors can also be found volunteering for agencies they know are helping people everyday.

This partnership also brings important leadership to our United Way Community Campaign. Joint union-management campaigns ensure increased campaign results. Through joint-leadership, recognition and celebration, management and unions are working together to have a positive impact on the quality of life in Saskatoon through the annual community campaign.

2006 Union Counselling Class

There are many people involved in the United Way whose participation, leadership and support make it a success. The United Food and Commercial Workers Union Locals 1400, 248P, 649 and 342P continue to support the United Way through participating and providing leadership in their workplace campaigns, volunteering on United Way committees and encouraging members to increase their involvement in the community. UFCW Local 1400 holds their own Union Counselling Program to train members to be peer counsellors in their workplaces and leaders in the community. In 2006 UFCW Provincial Council was the presenting sponsor of the 2006 Community Campaign Kick-Off "Taking it to the Streets" where over 150 United Way volunteers hit the streets of downtown Saskatoon to publicly announce the United Way of Saskatoon and Area's 2006 Community Campaign goal of $3.25M.

The United Food and Commercial Workers Union understands the impact of their involvement with the United Way in addressing the root causes of issues and working together to create sustainable change for everyone.

"The partnership between Labour and the United Way is a significant one. The United Food and Commercial Workers of Saskatchewan is proud to support the United Way through workplace campaigns, event sponsorships and active volunteerism. Because we realize how important United Way's viability is in caring for our communities, unions are involved to help to make a difference."

Caring

"It is amazing when a group of people start out with the intent to help someone else and they all walk away at the end of the day feeling like they got more out of it than the people they were helping...that was our experience with Day of Caring"

Day of Caring

Day of Caring is a program of the United Way of Saskatoon and Area in partnership with local businesses, labour groups, sponsors, United Way funded agencies and other community not-for-profit organizations. It is a grassroots opportunity for participants to experience the rewards of volunteerism, demonstrating what a difference they can make in our community by working together. Day of Caring projects help improve morale and build teamwork among the workplace volunteers who take part. Many people don't think of volunteering unless they are asked to do so, which is why an event like this helps to introduce people to the idea of giving back to their community through the gift of time.

In its seventh year, Day of Caring saw over 150 volunteers from local workplaces donate more than 1000 hours to help local organizations with projects and programs such as serving meals to the hungry, planting gardens at a senior's lodge, and even building porta-potties for the Girl Guides! Their efforts made a difference in the lives of the agency clients. Without the volunteers that participate in Day of Caring, many of these projects simply would not get done.

Honouring

2006 Dinner Date – "Town & Gown" An Evening Honouring Peter & Janice MacKinnon

United Way of Saskatoon & Area's Dinner Date is an initiative to encourage our community leaders to help the United Way and the many Saskatoon agencies and initiatives it supports.

The strength of any community comes from its leadership. The leaders in Saskatoon's business, labour, public, aboriginal, government and professional community have done a great deal to enhance our community's social safety net. By contributing to the United Way of Saskatoon & Area, you are not only helping to improve the quality of life in our community, you are also leading others by your demonstration of citizenship, philanthropy and community spirit. This event is one more way we help build a caring community...together.

The United Way of Saskatoon and Area was pleased to honour Peter and Janice MacKinnon in 2006. The 2006 Dinner Date raised nearly $60,000.

Sharing

"I see the United Way Loaned Representative program as a win-win opportunity for both the United Way and SaskTel. The United Way benefits by getting excellent, highly skilled individuals to help with the campaign, as SaskTel employees often have contacts and relationships in the business community who they can turn to for help in achieving the United Way targets.

From a SaskTel perspective, this is a tremendous opportunity for our employees to develop new skills, increase their self confidence, presentation and public speaking skills. The increased enthusiasm the employees get from their knowledge of the community and their involvement with the United Way is truly life changing for them."

Ken Keesey
Vice-President, Customer Services - Sales SaskTel

SaskTel knows the value of the Loaned Representative Program!

SaskTel has been a continuous supporter of the program for many years, both as a provider of excellent loaned representatives and as supporters for the program as a whole, providing the team with cellular phones and free minutes, ensuring that even more donor dollars are invested in the community.

SaskTel's visionary support has made a difference in the lives of their employees as well as in the lives of the thousands they have helped through this unique partnership.

"The strategy of an organization, to loan an employee to the United Way, makes perfect business sense. The employee receives personal development courses, self-confidence, selling aptitude, education about the community and meets several individuals while working with a team toward a common goal. The loaned representative is the organization's ambassador in the community. The business is rewarded with community respect and loyalty, as well an enriched, experienced, appreciated employee. We are helping ourselves by helping our community to be stronger and healthier. I would like to take this time to thank SaskTel for allowing me the opportunity to participate in the United Way campaign and help our community. The experience shall be cherished for the rest of my life."

Bev Panchyshyn
2002 SaskTel Loaned Representative

Loaned Representative Program

The Loaned Representative program is the key to the success of our annual campaign. Every fall, employees from various workplaces across the city join the United Way team for two and a half months to help support workplace volunteers. Due to the generous support and commitment of their own employers, these dedicated individuals continue to receive their regular salaries and benefits while helping the community.

While at United Way, these individuals are provided cutting-edge professional development to help them fulfill their role as leaders and ambassadors for United Way in the community. After completion of the secondment, they return to their respective workplaces with new skills and a renewed sense of purpose and commitment to the community.

Volunteer Saskatoon: “Connect to What Matters ... Volunteer”

Volunteer Saskatoon, a program of United Way of Saskatoon and Area, offers a range of programs and services to support and enhance the spirit of volunteerism in Saskatoon. By supporting community collaboration and partnerships and working with individuals and organizations, Volunteer Saskatoon ultimately strengthens volunteerism in the community. Volunteer Saskatoon's commitment to fostering participation and collaboration is a natural extension of the United Way's commitment to community building.

Through a variety of training opportunities and workshops especially geared for the not-for-profit community, a central resource library, and an annual city-wide recognition event, Volunteer Saskatoon provides organizations with the tools to maximize their volunteer programs. In addition, Volunteer Saskatoon facilitates the recruitment of volunteers through both one-on-one assistance given to prospective volunteers and through a membership-based volunteer posting service. Since the program's inception in 2001, Volunteer Saskatoon has provided resources and support to “connect to what matters ... volunteer.”

“We posted a Board Member volunteer opportunity on the Volunteer Saskatoon “Available Volunteer Opportunities” listing service and as a result have recruited several new board members. That posting was so successful that we have a full board for the first time in several years. This service provided by Volunteer Saskatoon is a great asset to our organizations and our community.”

Erin Scriven
Executive Coordinator, AIDS Saskatoon

On behalf of the community of Saskatoon, Volunteer Saskatoon hosted its 4th Annual Saskatoon Recognition and Awards Celebration on April 24, 2006.

Volunteers play a critical role in shaping our community. We have all been touched by the dedication of volunteers who impact our lives. Without volunteers, our community would be a very different place. A call for nominations for these 2006 volunteer awards went out to the community and we received an outstanding list of individuals and groups who volunteer in various capacities. Nominees were evaluated on achievement, impact, approach, involvement.

One 2006 award winner was Mike Tanton. Mike received the award in the Sports and Recreation category for his strong involvement and commitment to the administration or leadership of leisure or sport activities in the community.

Mike has a passion for the sport of basketball which he has directed towards youth development. He has created various tournaments and leagues such as the "Kevin Moccasin Memorial Basketball Tournament", "For the Love of the Game" community basketball tournament, and the "Late Night Basketball League". Mike encourages youth to use sport as a healthy outlet and as a tool for youth leadership training.

Mike is described by his nominators as "one who selflessly enriches the lives of youth through encouragement and sharing his love of sport. He has the ability of striking an interest within the youth that builds passion, commitment, integrity and understanding. Saskatoon is fortunate to have such an ambassador for the youth of this city."

We applaud and thank each of the nominees for the outstanding contribution to Saskatoon and congratulate each of the winners in the ten award categories offered in 2006.

Community Conversations

In the spring of 2006, as part of our commitment to becoming a “community impact United Way”, the United Way of Saskatoon and Area decided to initiate a series of conversations with people in Saskatoon to find out their hopes and dreams for the future of our community as well as suggestions for how the United Way could help make these dreams a reality.

The consultation process was overseen by a Core Team made up of a dedicated and representative group of individuals from the United Way Board of Directors, staff, the provincial and federal governments, our funded agencies, and the community as a whole. As well, the process was led by two very skilled facilitators, Diane Fletcher and Donna Bruce, who used an approach to the consultations called Appreciative Inquiry.

In September, the Core Team decided that the goals of the consultation process would be two-fold. First, to collect information on what kind of community people want, what the human service priorities for Saskatoon are, and what the United Way’s role should be in helping to achieve this vision for the future. Second, we wanted to involve participants in a community building experience.

The Core Team decided that we would organize six community “conversations” built around one-on-one interviews. The conversations were held in November and early December 2006 in Princess Alexandra elementary school, the Saskatoon Indian Metis Friendship Center, Mayfair United Church, Albert Community Centre, the Park Town Hotel and the Saskatchewan Abilities Council. Participants filled out questionnaires as they interviewed each other, answering four basic questions.

1. a) Please tell a story about a high point in your life in Saskatoon, a time when you were involved in or observed a remarkable example of community caring. What made it a high point?

b) Think of a time when you were involved in or heard of a story that shows how an organization or individual(s) was involved in and/or influenced successful community building. Share your story.
2. What do you value deeply about living in Saskatoon?
3. Imagine it if the year 2016. Your vision of a caring city has come true. People consider Saskatoon an ideal place to live. What has happened, how did it happen, and who was involved?
4. What role should the United Way play in achieving this vision for the future?

The conversations were open to the public but for several of the sessions we made a special effort to involve members of particular groups, including Aboriginal people, new immigrants, refugees, unionized workers, youth, and seniors. In all, 151 people from across the city and representing a wide range of ages and backgrounds completed the interviews.

“It was really interesting to discover the similar themes which emerged from the community conversations. This signifies to me that there are many common values and goals and regardless of our diversity we share the same objectives. Key decisions now need to be made to begin the process of meeting the expectations the community has shared with us. The next few years will be exciting as we grow and change to reach our objectives.”

Kelly Harrington
Union Representative
Service Employees International Union, Local 333

“Since my childhood in Saskatoon, the city has grown and diversified in a dramatic way. These conversations were a powerful reminder to me that this is still one community, and that there are many passionate citizens dedicated to keeping the spirit of that community alive.”

College of Law, University of Saskatchewan

Treasurer's Report

The Board of United Community Funds of Saskatoon (United Way of Saskatoon) established and approved a 2006-07 budget according to agreed priorities and operational objectives for the upcoming year. The Finance Committee reviewed and monitored the financial statements and reported regularly to the Board during the year. Finance and Executive Committees met with the external auditors and senior management to review and discuss the results of operations, financial reporting and audit findings. Summarized Financial Statements and accompanying Auditors' Report are included with this Annual Report.

The Audited Financial Statements of United Community Funds of Saskatoon for the year ending March 31, 2007, show an excess of revenue-over-expenses of $119,577, which reflects careful budgeting and financial management. This excess of revenue-over-expenses ensures the organization is maintaining the proper level of reserves, to meet future unexpected variances.

The Statement of Operations shows an increase in campaign revenue of 8% in 2006, reflecting the substantial increases in the campaign. The organization invested more dollars in community development than ever before, up 5% over 2005 to $2,526,000 in total. This community investment is achieved through allocations to member agencies, donor-directed giving, and collaboration with other organizations, agencies and community partners through our Community Services role, as well as Volunteer Saskatoon, Community Initiatives and United Way of Canada-Centraide Canada membership.

The Statement of Financial Position reflects strong cash and receivables balances consistent with the increase in the current year's campaign. The Tomorrow Fund endowment held at The Saskatoon Foundation was increased by $9,036 during the year and now has a market value of $217,171.

I would like to extend my sincere appreciation to the members of the Finance Committee for their significant contributions of time and effort during the year, and for the support we received from staff and management in providing the assistance and information that our committee required.

Marla L. Adams, CA, CIRP
